Mayoral Candidate Dr. Myrtle P. Alexander Calls for Federal Intervention After 12 Months of Mail Theft, Non-Delivery, and USPS Failures in Washington, D.C.

Washington, D.C. — Independent (Write-In) Mayoral Candidate Dr. Myrtle P. Alexander is calling for urgent federal intervention following a year-long pattern of severe mail irregularities, including stolen mail, missing mail, and repeated non-delivery of essential documents processed through the Washington, D.C. USPS Distribution Center.

Despite submitting multiple official mail holds and forwarding orders, Dr. Alexander reports that USPS personnel have repeatedly failed to execute these directives. As a result, critical items — including bank statements, financial checks, bank cards and election-related materials — have been withheld, misdirected, or never delivered.

“These failures are not routine postal delays,” said Dr. Alexander. “They represent a systemic breakdown that has now interfered with my ballot access, campaign operations, and financial security. No resident — and certainly no candidate — should be subjected to this level of negligence.”

During an in-person visit to USPS Headquarters in Washington, D.C., Dr. Alexander was informed that Customer Advocates have not been physically present in the office since 2020, leaving District residents without any functional avenue for resolution. She also reports degrading and unprofessional conduct from personnel at the Distribution Center, further obstructing her ability to retrieve or protect her mail.

In response, Dr. Alexander has submitted formal correspondence to:

- The President of the United States
- The House Committee on Oversight & Accountability
- The Senate Homeland Security & Governmental Affairs Committee
- The Postmaster General of the United States
- The USPS Office of Inspector General

For Immediate Release

Washington, D.C. — October 14, 2026

Mayoral Candidate Dr. Myrtle P. Alexander Calls for Federal Intervention After 12 Months of Mail Theft, Non-Delivery, and USPS Failures in Washington, D.C.

Her request calls for:

1. A federal review of the Washington, D.C. USPS Distribution Center.
2. An investigation into mail theft, mishandling, and non-delivery affecting her address.
3. A compliance audit of forwarding and hold orders.
4. Restoration of Customer Advocate services for District residents.
5. Assurance that election-related materials and financial documents are handled securely and delivered promptly.

“The reliability of mail delivery is foundational to public trust and democratic participation,” Dr. Alexander stated. “When a federal agency fails this profoundly — and for this long — oversight is not optional. It is necessary.”

Dr. Alexander encourages District residents experiencing similar issues to document incidents and file complaints with the USPS Office of Inspector General.
