What is Autism

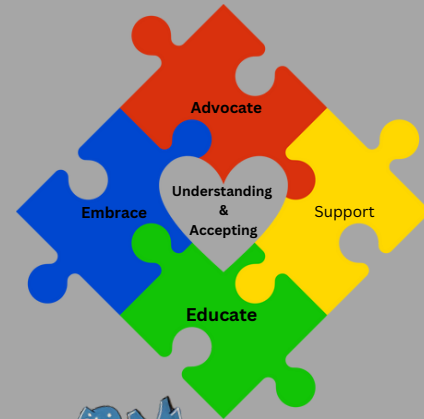

The definition of autism has changed over the decades and could change in future years as we understand more. Some people feel the spectrum is too broad, arguing an autistic person with 24/7 support needs cannot be compared with a person who finds supermarket lights too bright. We often find that autistic people and their families with different support needs share many of the same challenges, whether that's getting enough support from mental health, education and social care services or being misunderstood by people close to them. We will continue to fight to make society work for autistic people.

People with Autism may possess the following characteristics in various combination and in vary degrees of severity

Can Autistic People Be good at sport

The simple answer is yes. Autistic kids can be good at sports, but which sports they'll be good at is an entirely different question. Some kids may thrive at one sport and struggle with others. That's true for anyone at any athletic ability but can be doubly true for those on the autism spectrum.

Kit sponsors

Jigsaws Rugby are the Rugby Team who represent Autism Awareness through Sport and over the next few seasons we are changing how we operate

We have always been proud of our unique kits from our inception as a team however, we are teaming up with the Italian manufacturer with a Northampton base, again trying to bring things back to the local community. Our kit for 2025 and 2026 seasons is going to be unique

This will be the first kit designed by our supporters and voted for by our supporters

Obviously to enable us to compete in our fixtures we will be needing kit sponsors to purchase the kit and fund our fixtures - this allows us to raise more funds per event whilst having the same set of supporting companies for 2 years - again a first for us as previous kits have been on an event by event basis.

Kit Sponsors are below however please contact us for more information on these

Off Field Kit

Our Off Field Kit while being from the traditional Macron Range Incorporates a unique form of flair and also keeps our “grafitti” style logo to the forefront of the designs

Playing Shirt

Branding on the Unique playing shirts and shorts is available, which gives brand an excellent opportunity to have their logo on the playing kit, which will be worn across all our fundraising games
