

List of Surgery's

- 1974 Eye surgery in both eyes to correct lazy eye
- 1974 Knee surgery in left knee, torn cartilage
- 2005 Lapband surgery
- 2006 Gastric bypass
- 2009 Fused C6 & C7
- 2012 2 Surgery's to close bedsores caused by coma. Coma was caused by phenomenon.
- 2012 Surgery to repair right rotator cuff.
- 2012 Surgery to fuse L4-L5-S1
- 2015 Surgery to repair prior lumber surgery and to fuse L3-L4. I'm now fused from L3 to S1 and a rod was inserted.
- 2018 Surgery on right rotator cuff and bicep
- 2019 Total shoulder replacement right side

Other notable and noticeable are as follows

Vestibular system destroyed. Reason unknown. Zero balance. When you lose your vestibular system your eyes and feeling in your feet and lower extremities. Due to the neurotropy in my lower extremities, I am left with sight only. You turn the lights out, I fall like and rock. On my third trip to rehab, the Dr. asked me if I liked to swim. My reply was I'm a water dog. She warned me to never get close to water at night. You will immediately drown.

Scoliosis and whatever the term is for going forward.

So, as you can tell I am old and beat up. And I could keep adding to the list.

Oh, yea my immune system is fried. Variable Immunol deficiency. I take infusions every two weeks of Gammaglobulinemia 20%. This stuff has to be refrigerated or it's destroyed.

My oncologist is the only Dr. who was determined to find out why I kept getting sick. She did and I love her to death.

After I got sick and returned home, my classmates raised around $10,000 to have the nasty carpet removed and replaced with real hardwood floors and paint the dump.

You see one of my many nicknames is The Pope of Oak Cliff. I ran a group home for mentally ill men, who need a safe place to stay and a sheep dog, who kept the predators away.

End of story....