Transition Update

It may be hard to believe, but last week marked the midpoint of the OSMS transition period. We are proud to announce that we've achieved several significant milestones during this time. We've successfully conducted on-site townhalls, issued employment letters to our new OSMS team members, and developed a robust organizational structure.

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to the incumbent contractors, the management staff, the SPFPA and USW labor unions, and our teaming partners for their unwavering cooperation and dedication to a smooth work scope transition.

As we move into the next phase of this transition, we're excited to commence the employee onboarding process very soon.

Our achievements so far are a testament to the power of teamwork and the importance of including everyone in this process. As the Senior Human Resources and Labor Relations Manager for MCSA, I look forward to building on the relationships that this transition has created as we move forward into the second half of this transition.
