About Us

We use Bio-Resonance testing which collects a DNA energetic signature and molecular frequency of the pathogens or toxins.

- Test for 36 different mold species included in the EPA's ERMI (Environmental Relative Mold Index) panel. As well as fungus and yeast.
- This allows us to test:
  - Identification - Determining which of the specific mold species' signatures are present in the sample.

Our Strengths :

Tests for microbial species

Test for heavy metals and chemicals

Accurate and sensitive, testing at the frequency level.

What sets our test a part from others:

- Determine the location of the exposure: bedroom vs basement vs. whole house.
- More affordable than an ERMI, DUST test, or official mold certified inspector.
- Important to rule out if it is just one room, the water, or whole house.
- Test mycotoxin frequencies, not just spore count in a traditional air sample.

How our Environment Shapes Our Health

Environmental Exposures Matter: Our surroundings directly influence immune, hormone, gut, nervous system, and mental health.

Hidden Mold & Toxins: Mold and environmental toxins can quietly drive inflammation and chronic symptoms.

Modern Toxic Load: Daily chemical exposures add ongoing stress to the body's detox pathways.

The Body's Response: When detox systems are overwhelmed, the body shifts into survival mode.

Creating Health-Supportive Spaces: Reducing exposure and supporting detox helps restore balance and resilience.

EnviroWellness Testing has not been approved by the EPA or any governmental agency. It is a measurement tool to provide the mold and microbial burden that may be in a provided sample based on our frequency library.

Client Testimonials

Finding out there was mold in my water system at home changed our health drastically for the better!

Jason

We were relieved to find out that Radon was high and that was causing significant health problems.

Tammie

I felt that I was finally able to heal when we tested the mold in my water that I had been drinking.
