

New COVID Practices

With the widespread availability of COVID vaccinations and declining cases in our region, we are beginning to change how we spend Sunday mornings. We once again have some limited congregational singing for those who have been vaccinated, we are going to be able to share announcements and prayer requests during the worship service, and we are having fellowship time outside. You all have done some amazing work at being flexible as we have navigated this challenge and I know that flexibility will remain with us as we grow into this new phase of responding to the pandemic. We will continue to stream the worship service for those who wish to continue connecting with us that way.
