

Live Wire Automation

Structure Panel

September 2016

About this Company

As many of you know, demand for automation and smart homes is growing. More precision is necessary for audio video, and electricians do not always take this into account. Telecommunication and home automation is a very detail-oriented field. We specialize in invisible equipment television solutions. Who wants to look at a cable box when you no longer have to?

Structure Panels

Smart panels are necessary in smart homes, but we have a big white panel in the wall. Why not have it advertise for you. All our panels have our contact information on the door, Why not ask us to put your logo on there too with a contact number if they ever need help and or service? We can place you on there with us for a very small fee of $9.99 per home.

This is a structure panel in a renovation job we performed. We do not typically have the green strip or the “Get In Control” on the bottom corner; however, the client preferred us to do this to hide a scratch on the panel.

This home was wired with a half mile of infrastructure. To the right, we have the wiring terminated labeled for ease. Excuse the slight mess. We needed to leave the network running in the office for the client.

