OUR METHODS

WE HELP CONNECT HOSPITALS TO RESOURCES

ARHP works to identify strategies to overcome healthcare staffing issues, close geographical barriers, and meet the social and healthcare needs that affect our rural patients. ARHP strives to provide on-site training and education to healthcare professionals, empower patients and communities with information, provide mental health & substance use treatment & prevention, and connect hospitals with important resources.

UNIFYING CARE, TRANSFORMING COMMUNITIES

ARHP has become a reference point and model for rural health innovation and collaboration across the state and nation. ARHP's outreach programs and services address the needs of our local communities. ARHP and its programs are a direct result of listening to the communities and member organizations through conducting community health needs assessments for each ARHP member hospital.

OVERVIEW

New York Institute of Technology College of Osteopathic Medicine at Arkansas State University (NYITCOM at A-State) is the first osteopathic medical school established in the state and the second medical school founded in Arkansas. The college, which serves as an additional location of NYITCOM on Long Island, New York, is located on the Jonesboro campus of Arkansas State University. The main NYITCOM campus in New York was founded in 1077 and is one of the largest osteopathic medical schools in the United States, with over 300 students per class and more than 7,500 graduates practicing in all 50 states in in 18 countries. NYITCOM established its Arkansas campus in 2016 through a public-private partnership with Arkansas State University with a two-fold goal to train physicians to help alleviate the significant shortage facing the state and the greater Mississippi Delta region and to provide health outreach and health education programs to help address many of the health issues facing the state and region.

EDUCATION

NYITCOM at A-State is committed to training osteopathic physicians for a lifetime of learning and practice, based upon the integration of evidence-based knowledge, critical thinking, and the tenets of the osteopathic principles and practice. NYITCOM at A-State is also committed to preparing osteopathic physicians for careers in health care, including that in the rural and medically-underserved communities, as well as to the scholarly pursuit of new knowledge concerning health and disease.

UAMS OVERVIEW

- The mission of UAMS is to improve the health, health care and well-being of Arkansans and of others in the region, nation, and the world by:
- Educating current and future health professionals and the public;
- Providing high-quality, innovative, patient- and family-centered health care and also providing specialty expertise not routinely available in community settings; and
- Advancing knowledge in areas of human health and disease and translating and accelerating discoveries into health improvements.

UAMS, as Arkansas' only academic health system, allows it to deliver dramatic and lasting health and healthcare improvements to its home state. Aiding in this vision will be its statewide network of campuses for public education and clinical outreach, along with cores of expertise in medical specialties, population health, digital health, health informatics, and translational research.

EDUCATION

As the state's only medical teaching facility, UAMS takes its role in training tomorrow's physicians and research scientists very seriously. Nearly 80 percent of UAMS students remain in Arkansas after graduation as teachers, researchers, and as medical practitioners. By producing highly trained and motivated medical personnel, the health of Arkansans and future Arkansans is secured with the knowledge that those serving them are among the nation's top healthcare professionals. UAMS' five colleges and its graduate school are responsible for producing skilled specialists in virtually every field of medicine – from nurses to paramedics, from surgeons to pharmacists – and attention is paid to every detail of training in our effort to generate the best and brightest future medical technicians.

UAMS COLLEGES

- College of Medicine; College of Pharmacy; College of Nursing; College of Health Professions; College of Public Health; and Graduate School

CLINICAL SERVICES

With UAMS' combination of education, research, and clinical programs, UAMS has a unique capacity to lead health care improvement in the state. Start living your happiest, healthiest life with a visit to UAMS Health. With clinics covering nearly every medical need, UAMS provides world-class treatment in a comforting, patient- and family-centered environment.

RESEARCH

UAMS' researchers brought in $177.4 million in total research funding across UAMS and UAMS researchers working in the Arkansas Children's Research Institute and Central Arkansas Veterans Healthcare System. UAMS basic/translational scientists transcribe cutting-edge research into new identification, treatment, and prevention of cancer, infectious disease, substance abuse, and behavioral problems. Researchers work with the American Heart/Stroke Associations, Centers for Disease Control, Department of Defense, Food and Drug Administration, National Institutes of Health, National Science Foundation, and other national/international organizations to better the health of Arkansans. ## REGIONAL PROGRAMS

UAMS Regional Campuses encompass family medicine, nursing, pharmacy, mid-level, and allied health professions, as well as a statewide network for health career pipeline programs, continuing professional education, library resources, patient-centered quality care initiatives, and telehealth connections to cutting-edge medicine.

In an effort to ensure an adequate healthcare workforce to care for future Arkansans, eight teaching centers were established to expose future health professionals to underserved communities and provide a more varied hands-on experience than they might receive in a traditional urban, academic environment.
