

Board Member Biography

Patrick Fulton

Patrick Fulton is a dedicated public servant with extensive experience in government regulations, financial oversight, and compliance. A veteran of the United States Navy, Patrick served as a Gunners Mate, where he developed a strong foundation in inventory management, regulatory adherence, and leadership. Following his military service, he transitioned into federal employment and currently serves as a General Supply Manager for the Department of Defense. In this role, he specializes in budget forecasting, auditing, internal controls, and ensuring strict compliance with government policies.

Patrick is highly committed to ethical leadership and meticulous in following policies and regulations. His deep understanding of financial management within the government sector enables him to navigate complex operational requirements with precision and integrity.

In addition to his government experience, Patrick worked in the private sector as a Quality Assurance professional at Solar Turbines, where he was responsible for ensuring the quality and accuracy of manufactured products. His attention to detail and commitment to excellence translate seamlessly into his role at IT Advocates.

As a board member, Patrick brings a strong focus on compliance, accountability, and operational integrity. His expertise in navigating regulations and financial policies will help ensure that IT Advocates upholds the highest standards in governance while continuing to serve seniors with transparency and efficiency.
