

QUEENSLANDERS - IT IS NOW YOUR TURN TO ACT

My name is Clem Capdevila, owner of Clems Electrical. In the past 3 editions of this newspaper I have presented important and critical information on electrical safety in Queensland that directly affects you.

I want to publicly thank everyone who has supported me via phone, post, email, Facebook and Instagram and to all my customers over the past 13 years who have supported my vision and passion for a safer Queensland. Thank you!

I am pleased to report that the message of electrical safety is being taken seriously at higher levels.

On a recent call to a customer of a Housing Commission property in the suburb of Inala, the tenant informed us that all the power points and light switches have been replaced in the last 2 weeks.

The Queensland Government also announced on Tuesday that a webinar for landlords is now available, where you can register to receive important information on electrical safety. This is very good news.

Now is the time to use our collective power as Queenslanders to encourage our politicians to define a clear path to ensuring electrical safety for all of us. We need the law to change to ensure standards of compliance are upgraded. This will ensure that the school which our children attend, our workplaces and the coffee shop we frequent are all electrically safe.

If you would like to be a part of this safety exercise, please email, text, Facebook, Instagram or post me the word 'YES' if you agree, that the Queensland Electrical Safety Act which says it's purpose is to prevent electrical hazards to people and property be a reality for all of us.

I will pass it on your support the authorities so we have a better chance of success in making the changes necessary.

If you need further information as to why this is required, email Clem at clem@clemselectrical.com.au or write to PO Box 1223 Oxley Qld 4075.

Please do not let this opportunity pass you by. Now is the time for us to act, as this time may never come again.

Together we can make a difference.

Please check tomorrow's paper for more vital information from Clems Electrical.
