why become a practitioner & teacher?

Whereas the workshops support clients in experiencing self-healing tools within an incubated weekend, and prepares a foundation for attendees to take positive steps to go deeper and dissolve the barriers in their way. People do need private attention customized for their on-going development and life restoration.

This course is designed for you to teach and support a client with the dissolving of emotional barriers, reclaiming self-worth, healing the past and developing a relationship with themselves; healthier mind and body by working closely with the physical body symptoms defining their probable emotional cause; and enhancing relationships with those around them. The areas of money, career and purpose are visited as well, offering a whole life view, healing and new direction

After this course, you will have a map to help people:

- Understand and create a peaceful closure with life lessons & how to create a life of purpose/meaning
- Identify areas of growth/focus, understand where does it come from - family models and childhood experiences that shape their behaviors, core belief systems, and the limiting mind.
- The power of connecting with self – who are we and how to rebuild esteem and self-worth.
- Develop intuition and create a deeper soulful connecting with self and others.

This is a theory and practical course that offers two certifications:

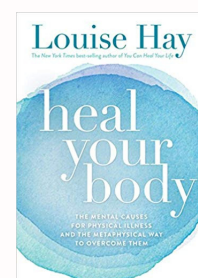

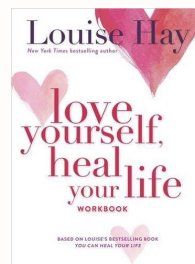

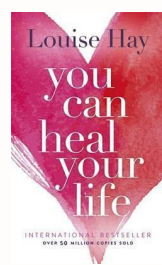

1. Study course Teacher

Many people prefer small weekly groups or private sessions instead of a full weekend, this course offers you a manual with step by step processes to lead your client through the 10-14 week study course.

2. Practitioner

Sometimes your client may need a little more than the study course, perhaps they are already quite active with their personal growth and need specialized support in the core areas in their life. This course equips you to create customized practitioner sessions using the health and relationship maps, leveraging off all the tools from workshop and study course as well.
