Montezuma Peak (Sierra Estrella Wilderness) Rating A. This is a very steep hike of 5.5 miles with an elevation change over 2900 ft. It's a rugged off trail hike to the top of Montezuma Peak, which at 4337 feet is the second highest point in the Estrella Mountain range (an unnamed peak to the northwest tops out at 4512 ft). This hike is best suited to experienced hikers familiar with off trail hiking and climbing over rough and unstable terrain. There are likely many routes one could take to the summit, none of which are particularly user friendly.

From the car park hike north through the desert along the base of the Estrella range a short distance towards two parallel ridgelines. Looking up the ridges you will see that they join about 3/4 of the distance to the top at which point the single ridge heads the remaining distance to the summit of the mountain, at a point just north of Montezuma Peak. You should walk up the southernmost of these two ridgelines, which was rugged and required the use of hands in several places. You'll have to dodge chollas and deal with loose and unstable rocks as you make your way up the steep slope. After the two ridgelines join you'll come to several spots where you'll want to bypass large rock outcrops on one side of the ridge or the other. Some additional hiking and scrambling will bring you to the summit ridge where the walking becomes easier. Turn south (right) at this point and hike along the mountain to the first of two small antennas (which no longer appear to be operational). Passing the antenna, the path becomes rough once more as you drop down a short distance to shallow saddle, and then begin climbing the final pitch of the peak itself. The easiest route to the summit is to continue directly up the ridgeline until you reach a point where you can work your way left into a shallow cleft on the east side of the peak. The cleft will allow you to make your way up to the official summit of Montezuma Peak (identified by a USGS marker which lists the elevation at 4337 feet), and great views in all directions. To get back down you could retrace your steps, or, opt for the steep wash, which leads down to the west from the saddle you passed earlier between the antenna and the peak. The wash is basically a steep hillside at first and is covered with loose rocks that demand your full attention. Further down, water has scoured out the canyon to bare rock, making travel and footing less precarious. The gully eventually becomes less steep, eventually passing the rock walls of an old Indian ruin located on the left side of the wash. Continue down the drainage until leaving the foothills of the mountain, at which point you'll want to head out of the drainage on the left (south) and route find back to the rough road and your car. There are no restrooms at the trailhead. No park fee. Driving distance is approx. 76 miles RT.

Quail/Saddle/Baseline/Toothaker/Pederson to Quartz/Gadsden/Coldwater/Dysart/Butterfield /Baseline/Baseline Ridge	B	12	1025	Excellent	20

This is a 12-mile loop hike with an elevation gain of 1000 ft. This route is mostly a good trail with a short bushwhack ridge walk to end the hike.

The trail goes from the Nature Center and follows Quail/Saddle/Baseline trails to the junction with Toothaker. After walking the full length of Toothaker, the route turns onto Pederson for a brief lunch stop at the Quartz Outcrop. After lunch, the hike continues back onto Toothaker to the junction with Gadsden. Turn left on Gadsden then left on Coldwater. Continue on Coldwater past the "Camelback of the West Valley" to the junction with Dysart. Turn right on Dysart and then left onto Butterfield. Follow Butterfield back to Toothaker and on to the Baseline trail. Turn right on Baseline and continue for approximately 0.5 mile. At this point there is an obvious jeep trail heading left up the ridge – follow this steeply up to the Baseline high point. Then continue along the ridge for 0.5 miles eventually dropping off the ridge to the Saddle trail. At the junction with the Quail trail, turn right and head back to the Visitor Center.

Trail condition – first 10 miles over a decent hiking trail. The final 2 miles is a rocky bushwhack. There are porta-johns at the Quail trailhead. Park fee is $7.00 per car. Driving distance is 20 miles RT.

Quartz Peak (Estrella Mountain\’s). Rating B+. This is a 6-mile hike with an elevation gain of 2550 ft. Quartz Peak Trail, in the 14,400-acre Sierra Estrella Wilderness, leads visitors from the floor of Rainbow Valley (elevation 1,550 feet) to the summit ridge of the Sierra Estrella at Quartz Peak (elevation 4,052 feet) in just 3 miles. Along the way, visitors are treated to a variety of Sonoran Desert plants and wildlife, scenic vistas, and evidence of the area's volcanic history. The views from the summit are spectacular--to the west is a dramatic panorama of rugged mountain ranges and desert plains, and to the east metropolitan Phoenix unfolds over the valley of the lower Salt River.

The trail begins at Quartz Peak Trailhead by following a closed four-wheel-drive track approximately 1/4 mile. Look to the left as you walk up the old road and see a narrow trail ascending the ridge to the north. The trail is rough trail with a scramble to the top - the final 1/4 mile to Quartz Peak is a scramble over boulder and talus slopes that requires careful footing. Quartz Peak is a point on the spine of the Sierra Estrella capped with an outcrop of white quartz.

Quartz Peak is accessed from Rainbow Valley and Riggs Roads in Rainbow Valley, Southwest of Pebble Creek. Trail condition - this is mostly a steep, boulder hopping, bushwhack hike. A high clearance vehicle is necessary to get to the trailhead. There are restrooms at the trailhead. No park fee. Driving distance is approx. 70 miles RT.
