ALBATROSS ALERT

On Dec. 16, Doug Crabtree aced the 222-yard par-4 10th hole at Pine Creek Golf Club in Purvis, Miss. The shot was with a 3-wood for the 78-year-old Crabtree, who resides in Richton, Miss.

Witnesses were Lee Sullivan, Ronnie Holliman, Dwight Helton, Elbert H. and Gary H.

This was the fourth lifetime ace for Doug and first albatross. Crabtree is a member at Pine Creek Golf Club.

COVER STORY

Zurich Classic of New Orleans ready for another edition

The Zurich Classic of New Orleans is back for another exciting year as it celebrates 20 years of delivering world-class golf alongside the vibrant energy and rich culture of the Crescent City.

The PGA Tour has been around in New Orleans since 1938 when Harry Cooper carded a 285 at City Park Golf Course to win the title. Since then, names like Byron Nelson, Billy Casper, Gary Player, Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Tom Watson, Seve Ballesteros, Calvin Peete, Ben Crenshaw, Ian Woosman, Davis Love III, Lee Westwood, David Toms, K.J. Choi, Vijay Singh, Bubba Watson, Billy Horschel, Justin Rose, Cameron Smith, Jon Rahm, Xander Schauffele, Patrick Cantlay, Shane Lowry and Rory McIlroy have won PGA Tour events in NOLA.

This year's event will mark the 75th PGA Tour event in New Orleans. In 2005, this tourney got the backing of Zurich and that's when the fun was taken to another level. Known as one of fan-favorite stops on the PGA Tour, this year's Zurich Classic of New Orleans will take place at TPC Louisiana on April 24-27. It's hard to not have a great time at the Zurich Classic of New Orleans, which features the only two-person team event on the PGA Tour. The players alternate between best-ball format and alternate-shot format mixing two distinctly different formats, which produces an extra layer of excitement. All the while, a great array of ticket packages ranging from general daily admission ones to packages offering the best the area has in the form of cuisine and drinks.

So if you've never experienced the Zurich Classic of New Orleans, have attended sporadically over the years, or making plans now for your annual trip, log onto www.zurichgolfclassic.com for information on this year's event.

TIME TO PLAN YOUR TRIP TO NORTH ALABAMA

The Muscle Shoals and Huntsville areas are usually known for things like rich music history and the ground-breaking space industry, but both also feature some great golf courses.

Starting off in Alabama's largest populated city (Huntsville has over 228,000 residents), Hampton Cove is part of the prestigious Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail.

The 54-hole facility features the Highlands Course, River Course and a Short Course.

The Highlands Course is one of the most picturesque and playable courses on the trail. The River Course is the only RTJ course without a single bunker. The Short Course is an open links-style layout with water in play on 11 holes.

Just east in nearby Scottsboro sits Goose Pond Colony Resort and its two courses — Lake and Plantation. The Lake Course features views of the Tennessee River on almost every hole. The Plantation Course is an open tract with plenty of hazards.

In the Northwestern part of the state sits the 36-hole facility known as The Shoals. It features The Fighting Joe Course, which was the first trail course to play at over 8,000 yards from the tips. The second course is the Schoolmaster, named after President Woodrow Wilson. Two holes stand out on the Schoolmaster Course — No. 18 because of it being on a high bluff overlooking the Tennessee River and the second hole that has a beautiful waterfall behind the green.

Despite being a long course, Fighting Joe has wide fairways and the key is playing from the correct tees. The Schoolmaster has tree-lined fairways (not as wide as its neighboring course) and well-protected greens. It can play just under 8,000 yards from the tips!

Together The Shoals and Hampton Cove are known as the Northern Gateway to the Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail. The courses are just under 70 miles from each other, but normally the first two that golfers from the North are likely to play.

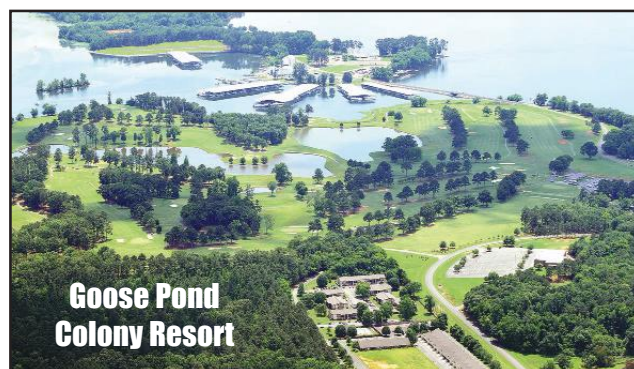

Twenty-five miles to the east of The Shoals is Joe Wheeler State Park, which is home to The General Golf

Hampton Cove

Course in Rogersville.

The General Golf Course is set on rolling hills and features abundant wildlife as the fun course is inside a game sanctuary.
