

Courses For Leaders At All Levels

Dr. Steve Gladis

Dr. Connie
Whittaker Dunlop

Building a Coaching Culture

Four half-day (3 hours each) virtual workshops teach leaders how to coach individuals, groups, and teams while embedding coaching practices in the broader organizational culture. Based on the book Leading Well.

Career Transition

A six-part (1.5 hours each) virtual course teaches job seekers to know themselves, know the market, and market themselves effectively to potential employers. Based on a book in progress by Connie Dunlop and Steve Gladis.

Leading Teams

A six-part (1.5 hours each) virtual series that is based on Harvard research that revolutionizes how we think about and lead teams. Teaches six conditions of high-performing teams. For managers and above. Based on the book Leading Teams.

The 4 Critical Elements for Leaders

Five half-day (3 hours each) virtual sessions provide an introduction and overview of the 4 critical elements – developing trust, treating people well, creating a culture, and delivering on strategy. Based on the book Leading Teams.

Leadership Communication

Four half-day (3 hours each) virtual sessions offer instruction on personality types and writing, public speaking, influence, and persuasion for leaders. Based on the books WriteType: Personality Types and Writing Styles and Public Presentations.

Select Topics

All topics in these series are also offered individually. For example, in the Leadership Communication Series, public speaking can be taught as a stand-alone class. In the Building a Coaching Culture Series, The Coach-Approach can be taught as a standalone topic.