Celebrating Washington State Ferries

Bremerton WA, (September 15, 2024) – Next year marks the seventy fifth anniversary of the Washington State Ferry System. Experience the majestic jumbo-class M/V Tacoma Ferry cruising Elliot Bay against the iconic Seattle skyline. “It’s So Seattle” is a digitally mastered artwork created by renowned nature photographer and artist Ron Boyd. Each piece in this limited series is signed and numbered making it a great addition to any home, office or business lobby.

About the Artist

In the wake of injury and illness, wildlife photographer and artist Ron Boyd is returning to fulfill his legacy of creating unique digital art. In a dramatic departure from the beaten path, Ron has emerged in the vibrant Bremerton waterfront community with a new focus on non-wildlife art. Using the same digital techniques developed for his trademark wildlife art, this latest offering shifts to capturing one of the stunning everyday views of Puget Sound life. Every local resident is familiar with the iconic green and white ships of the Washington State Ferry System that crisscross the Sound. Soon, WSF will be celebrating its seventy-fifth anniversary, and “It’s So Seattle” commemorates the occasion with the ship M/V Tacoma and the Seattle skyline.
