

FALL MAINTENANCE

Fall home maintenance is essential for preparing your home for colder weather and the demands of winter. As temperatures begin to drop, it's the ideal time to inspect heating systems, clean gutters, seal gaps, and take care of any repairs before freezing conditions set in. Addressing issues in the fall helps prevent costly damage, improves energy efficiency, and ensures your home stays warm, safe, and secure. A little preparation in the fall goes a long way toward a stress-free winter season.

Checklist:

- Clean and inspect gutters/leaves
- Check roof and flashing before winter
- Service furnace or heating system
- Inspect chimney and fireplace
- Cover or store outdoor furniture
- Weatherproof doors and windows
- Stock up on winter supplies (salt, fuel, firewood)
- Test smoke and carbon monoxide detectors
