Thoughts From Brian J. Roush

Taking it One Day at a Time...

It probably feels as if every message you have received over the last three weeks is about the coronavirus. In a way, I'm sorry to add one more. As we all face the challenges of the COVID-19 pandemic, my first priority at Connecting Connections is the health (mind & body) of our clients and the communities where we live and work. I am also committed to supporting our clients through this challenging time.

All of my clients are still looking to grow their brand, build their teams and sales, have bills of their own - the world is still going on through this madness and uncertainty.

As a company, we will be there for them. In order to continue to provide the same high level of support to them, I am adapting, adjusting and thinking of clever and unique ways to stay connected like never before.

In conclusion, know Connecting Connections ...and more are here for you!!

...and now on to our regularly scheduled newsletter, which has some non-coronavirus content...

Digital Connectors

We're putting as many of our events online as possible. You'll find specific information and links to each of the meetings in this link.

Because of that need currently, we are creating an online community - "Digital Connectors." For a low price of $3.99 per month we offer resources/development that are utilized online. It consists of the following:

- Access to Business Developmental Workshops (...Digital Marketing 101, Do's & Don'ts of Social Media, Networking, How & Why, How to Engage. etc).
- Access to Quarterly Events (...mini expo's, speed networking, etc).
- Digital Downloads & links to informative data.
- Peer 2 Peer Review (...advice from other industry leaders)

For more information, visit us here.
