Nevada Rules of Civil Procedure

Allowance of Audiovisual Recordings of a Deposition

The Nevada Rules of Civil Procedure does authorize the use of audiovisual recordings of a deposition.

Rule 30(b)(3)(A) states that:

“The party who notices the deposition must state in the notice the method for recording the testimony. Unless the court orders otherwise, testimony may be recorded by audio, audiovisual, or stenographic means. The noticing party bears the recording costs. Any party may arrange to transcribe a deposition.”
(Emphasis added).
