"Scandal~~ous~~-less!"—Serious Publication of Lutheranism And Theology

In celebration of the tenth anniversary of Lutheran Worship, the creators of Bernetneßschriften™ are proud to offer the following opus. It's nifty, festschrifty, and a timely addition to your personal pew of the nineties. Introducing...

The Politically-Correct Lutheran Worship™

Yes! In this modern age where enlightened minds realize that proper and effective communication entails deleting most of the English language, you can now worship without fear of exclusive and offensive language, biased vocabulary, or anything that might make you seem racist or just uncomfortable. Just take a look...

Divine Service: One¹ Setting

✠²: In the name of the parent, the child, and the one who visits.

✠: Ah, yes.³

✠: Beloved in our heavenly friend, let us share with an open heart to God our companion that we are salvifically challenged, imploring our comrade to enable us to a different plane of living. Our friend has assistance for us.

✠: Who may have helped in the development of the planets and the skies, not that one is necessarily better than the other.

✠: I say that I will share my lesser-perfections with our friend.

✠: And you accepted me without a word of prejudice. Oh loving one, we share that we are dysfunctional...

Song⁴ 91

My song is love deprived, Friend Jesus' love to me;
Love to those challenged by their lives
Who loving could be.
Oh I am now liberated from non-inclusive
vocables.

Song 503

Now the light has gone away,
Night is here instead of day,
Darkness lasts as long as morn,
Reminds us that we're equ'ly born.

¹"First" implies superiority over "second." We thus have "one" setting and "another."

²Icons of underprivileged members of society are used to enhance social consciousness.

³"Amen" has been removed for obvious reasons.

⁴"Hymn"? See footnote 3.

⁵Due to expenses, we are currently sharing a phone line with another company; so call, place your order, and—if you've been injured in an automobile accident in the last, say, six years—discuss lawsuit possibilities with an attorney who cares only that justice is done and you are rewarded, not his own personal gain.
