

New for Educators!

From the makers of Textus Berneticus™ comes the new aid for preparing young pastors. We at Bernetneßschriften™ reaffirm our commitment to educational excellence and taking advantage of current hot topics for the purpose of making a cheap buck. We are therefore proud to present....

Profiles of Theologians™

Yes, POT™ is a carefully prepared battery of exams designed to test the intelligence, mental awareness and emotional balance of those studying for the Holy Ministry. Just look at the example below:

This profile reminds me:

- a. of Thomas Aquinas.
- b. of John Calvin.
- c. that I didn't turn off the iron.
- d. of Phil Donahue.
- e. that Siamese-twin theologians were very rare.
- f. why there are so many "starving artist" sales.
- g. why Bernetneßschriften™ is a good argument against free speech.

Each question comes with clear-cut evaluation guide, sparing students and faculty the agony of prescriptive analysis:

If student answered "a," he forgot that Thom's nickname was "dumb ox," not "dumb skinny guy"; "b," he guessed; "c," he should return home without completing the rest of the test, but may return; "d," he should return home without completing the rest of the test, and should not return; "e," he should be advised that Aquinas did not hold a copyright on his nickname; "f," he uses logic to a degree; "g," he uses logic to an exceedingly high degree.

And for those who feel that an non-denominational test may not accurately reflect their theological psyche, denominational tests are available. (Profiles of Concordia Presidents™, based upon the portraits of the seminary's President's Room, will be available later in '93.)
