DJ is a gifted writer who excels at mixing humor and levity along with deep analysis in each of his stories. He's never short on ideas and sharp, unique angles when it comes to writing about multiple sports, particularly the NBA. DJ has always been open to and receptive regarding edits and constructive criticism and really grew as a writer during our time working together.

Worked with DJ for nearly two years. He's a fantastic writer that's able to juggle several different projects at once. His work ethic is truly remarkable and he would be a valuable asset to any team.

I highly recommend hiring DJ because he is an awesome creative collaborator. We worked together for two years at Deadspin making sports news videos. DJ's writing was unique, funny, and reliably backed by facts and observations that could only be noticed by a devoted expert like himself. He grew into an entertaining on-camera talent, as well, and appeared in videos I directed, both scripted and unscripted, several times a week. His takes were engaging and fun and our audience responded by frequently making videos that DJ appeared in the most viewed videos across ten brands.
