

AXEMASTER has stood the test of time. From its beginning in 1985, Joe Sims (pictured) always new what he wanted to do. With support from his family, he formed Axemaster, and is the only original member still in the band. If asked what he will be doing in 15 years, Joe will reply "still rocking in Axemaster!"

In its entirety, Axemaster has released 9 CD/EP, has been with three labels before signing with Pure Steel, has had their music in one movie, and went through one brief name change. Through all this, they survived and continue to write, record, and entertain metal heads from two generations.

"A proper, old-school, riff-blast awesome. With such a varied sound throughout, AXEMASTERS' 'Crawling Chaos', is like no other album you'll hear this year."

10,000 Pound Hammer – Instant mind blowing, explosive intro, with some cool relaxed touches on the riffs. Loud as hell and metal as fuck. Crushing sound, loaded with steel reinforcements, a huge metallic atmosphere, confidently performed, ending on a harder than hell drum section and a fabulously timed, electric fade-out riff. That's what you call a powerful intro!
