TwoFourteen ABCD™ Framework

From Professional Readiness to Real-World Opportunities

Why the Framework Exists?

The TwoFourteen ABCD™ Framework was developed to bridge the gap between learning essential professional skills and applying them in real-world environments. It establishes four foundational competencies that support personal development, professional readiness, and successful transitions into education, careers, entrepreneurship, and service.

These are outcomes the framework prepares individuals to pursue, rather than guaranteed results.

Application

Designed for integration into classroom instruction, workforce development, community programming, and experiential learning. The framework provides a foundation for teaching, practicing, observing, and evaluating transferable professional competencies.
