

RED DRAGON CONSULTING LTD

EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT & RESILIENCE | COMPANY OVERVIEW | 2026-2027

Red Dragon Consulting (RDC) supports First Nations, local governments, provincial ministries and organizations across British Columbia to understand risk, prepare for emergencies, manage complex incidents and strengthen long-term resilience.

Our approach. We work alongside clients to develop practical, proportionate solutions that fit their people, responsibilities and operating environment. Our approach combines evidence-based assessment, operational experience, collaborative planning, and clear tools they can use when they matter most.

What we deliver.

Risk & Resilience	Disaster Risk Reduction, Climate Adaptation Planning, Hazard, risk and vulnerability assessments, strategic risk assessments, risk mitigation options, gap analyses and risk-informed priorities.
Emergency Planning	Emergency program reviews; emergency and recovery plans, advanced planning, flood response plans, evacuation route and zone planning, operational procedures and checklists.
EOC Capability	EOC plans and procedures, readiness reviews, staff training; exercises, mentoring, coaching and incident management support.
Recovery & Learning	After-action review; facilitated debriefs, recovery planning and management advice, improvement planning and implementation support.
Business Continuity	Business Continuity Management Plans, Business impact and dependency analysis, essential service continuity, practical continuity plans and exercises.
Communications	Emergency communications planning, public information procedures, media readiness and specialist training.
Specialist Projects	Event management plans, security threat assessment reviews, flood risk and infrastructure assessments, industrial preparedness reviews, project oversight and funding application support.

Our experience. Red Dragon Consulting brings extensive experience in emergency management, disaster risk reduction and strategic incident leadership, drawing on operational and consultancy experience across Canada and the United Kingdom. Established in 2018, Red Dragon Consulting has successfully delivered a substantial portfolio of emergency management projects across British Columbia and beyond.

Led by a Principal Consultant with a BSc (Hons), NEBOSH qualifications, specialist incident command credentials, and over 30 years in leadership roles, the company combines practical operational knowledge with strategic planning and risk management expertise. This includes senior incident command, emergency operations centre leadership, emergency and evacuation planning, risk assessments and disaster resilience projects.

• Practical expertise. Stronger communities. Better decisions.

Red Dragon Consulting Ltd

Our experience enables us to provide informed, independent advice and practical solutions tailored to individual communities' needs. We understand the complexities of emergency management, the importance of sound decision-making and the need to develop plans and strategies that are both proportionate and operationally achievable.

RDC draws on a network of qualified associates and specialist partners to assemble project teams suited to the assignment. We combine strategic insight with hands-on experience in emergency operations, field assessment, mapping, facilitation and training.

How we work.

Understand	Review existing plans, evidence, community needs, risks, dependencies and operational arrangements.
Co-develop	Engage local staff, leadership, First Nations, partner agencies and other affected organizations as appropriate.
Make it usable	Produce clear priorities, maps, decision-support tools, procedures and practical guidance rather than documents that sit on a shelf.
Build capability	Support implementation through workshops, coaching, exercises and continuous improvement.

Professional standing. Paul Edmonds is a respected emergency management professional and trusted advisor to local governments and organizations across British Columbia, recognized for his extensive operational and strategic experience. His professional standing extends beyond consultancy projects, and organizations regularly seek his independent advice, guidance, and perspective on emergency management matters. He also helps strengthen the wider emergency management profession through knowledge sharing, collaboration, and his role as Director of the Building Resilient Communities Conference.

Values and commitments. We respect Indigenous rights, knowledge and relationships, work collaboratively with communities, and place integrity, practical value and continuous improvement at the centre of our work. We aim to leave clients with stronger internal capability and the confidence to use the plans and tools developed together.

Get in touch

Paul Edmonds
Principal Consultant
Red Dragon Consulting Ltd

250-488-8286 | info@reddragonconsulting.com
www.reddragonconsulting.com

• Practical expertise. Stronger communities. Better decisions.