Tonight's Speaker

Josh Maka

“Cognitive Resilience Protocols -
Aviation Performance & Safety”

Josh, is a researcher and instructor focused on attention training, cognitive resilience, and nervous system regulation. His work explores practical methods for improving mental performance and recovery in high-stress professional environments. Josh’s training programs combine neuroscience concepts with experiential learning techniques designed to help professionals develop sustainable cognitive performance skills.

We Need Chapter Historian

- Looking for a volunteer to take on a task
- We don't currently keep track of projects that are in work but we should.
- Catalog
 - List of active projects
 - New or rebuilds
 - Short synopsis
- Chapter gather information from members and catalog it
- This would also encompass tracking our Master members
- Interested individual would collect and organize members information please let us know
