Living Well Group welcomes their new Executive Director

March 28, 2022, Burlington, VT - Living Well Group, Inc, a non-profit organization with assisted living residences in Burlington and Montpelier, is proud to announce their new Executive Director, Beth Hammond.

Hammond brings a wealth of experience in non-profit management and program development to the organization's strong management team. Hammond's experience includes positions at Cathedral Square/SASH, Boston Senior Home Care, the Office of Long-Term Care Ombudsman in New Hampshire, and most recently Executive Director of Heineberg Community Senior Center. Under Hammond's leadership, the Center reinvented itself to become a vibrant destination and resource for hundreds of older adults throughout greater Burlington.

Hammond holds degrees in business administration and international business from Northeastern University.

"I am honored to join Living Well Group's dedicated and talented team. I have found everyone to be welcoming and enthusiastic about ensuring our mission of honoring individuals while redefining aging, remains at the forefront of minds as we expand in meaningful ways," shared Beth Hammond, Executive Director, Living Well Group.

Living Well Group's Board President, Jim Holway shares, "It is with great enthusiasm we welcome Beth to Living Well Group. She is known and respected throughout our community for the direction she gives non-profits through team building and partnerships. Her passion for our mission is clear, and we look forward to her positivity and business sense enhancing the strength and momentum of our organization."

"I'm happy to share we finally found a qualified Executive Director so it's time for me to move on to my next opportunity," stated Living Well Group's Interim Executive Director and CFO, Geoffrey Lindemer. "I love Living Well Group and all staff; never have I had a job I've enjoyed more."

The organization's new website: livingwellgroup.org, communicates the strength and energy of their dedicated Board and management team.
