

What's Inside the A7MQ® Life Management Toolbox

Life Management: What's Your A7MQ? Worktext

Society expects its citizens to be ready to take charge of their lives by the time they reach the age of majority, which is typically age 18. Life Management: What's Your A7MQ? provides a realistic picture of what to expect and what is expected of adults. This self-paced worktext takes the mystery out of what is required to attain one's adult aspirations by teaching readers how to answer seven major questions (A7MQ) in seven segments of their lives, rather than having someone else provide answers for them.

Each chapter is designed to help readers understand, in advance, how well they will be able to manage their whole lives in a college or corporate setting. It is a must-have for students who want to establish their own identity, develop mutually beneficial relationships, work in a satisfying career, rely on their own income, get involved in their community, become an independent thinker, and understand what influences their choices.

Additional features include chapter objectives, practice worksheets, self-scoring assessments, real-life 'What If...' scenarios, introspection journaling, quizzes, a culminating project, and a glossary. The High School edition features comprehensive precollege, matriculation, and graduation portfolio checklists; charts of campus support resources; and lists of major fields of study and national business industries.

A7MQ® Life Management Wheel

This tool helps users take the guesswork out of structuring their day. A hand-held device, it provides quick access to the routine life management tasks one is expected to know about, talk about, and get done to attain their adult aspirations. The A7MQ Life Management Wheel gives users the freedom to choose what tasks they will perform on a given day rather than having someone else choose for them.

The wheel conveniently displays the concepts found in the Life Management: What's Your A7MQ? worktext including the 28 mechanisms, seven segments of life, 15 driving forces, three capacity-builders, five goal-diggers, five elements of a strategic plan, 15 parking forces, and four response abilities. The wheel comes ready to use. No technology, wi-fi, batteries, chargers, hardware, software, or assembly is required.

What's Your A7MQubes?

This tool gives users access to private guidance counseling anytime or anywhere. Students use this innovative and empowering set of self-guidance cubes to brainstorm over 6.7 million combinations of guidance prompts for what they can start, continue, or stop thinking, saying, doing, or becoming to attain their adult aspirations. What's Your A7MQubes? provide endless opportunities for users to expand their "response repertoire" and generate new possibilities rather than having someone else respond for them.

Each set comes with seven cubes, an 11x17 grid with 35 cells, and an instruction booklet that contains over 100 examples of goals to brainstorm in every segment of life. What's Your A7MQubes? is an excellent resource for users who have limited access to a guidance counselor or feel afraid, reluctant, or embarrassed to speak up.
