Robison Heats Up

Travis Robison was the clear standout last week, racking up an impressive $185 in winnings. The bulk of that haul came from capturing Major #3 in his division, but he didn't stop there. Travis also picked up a scratch (gross) skin, two closest-to-the-pin prizes, and the longest putt of the day—an all-around dominant performance. It seems the week off from golf paid dividends, as he came back sharp and in full control of his game.

Major #3 Winners

Two other big winners made their mark last week, with Ken Burnett and Billy Winters each cashing in behind standout performances in Major #4. The playing partners clearly fed off each other's momentum, turning in two of their best rounds of the season.

Ken led the charge with an impressive net 68, while Billy was right on his heels at net 69. Fortunately for both, they compete in different divisions—avoiding any head-to-head conflict and allowing each of them to walk away with the top prize of $100 in their respective flights.

Billy added to his strong showing by capturing one of the two handicap (net) skins, boosting his total winnings by another $58. All in all, it was a big day for the duo and a great example of how a little friendly competition can bring out the best in both players.

Welcome

Welcome back to Tony Carbone after a brief time away—we're glad to have the lefty back in the club.

Major #4

The fourth major tournament of the year begins today. The King of the Hill is a multi-week, head-to-head elimination tournament played within each division.

This is match play using handicap differences, meaning you must win more holes than your opponent to win the match. Players will be grouped with their assigned opponent, so regular foursomes may be adjusted during the competition.

In the first week, some matches will include byes due to player absences or divisions having fewer than 16 golfers. After four weeks, each division will have a champion, who will earn 140 Player of the Year points and a $100 prize.
