Latest News on Tiny Tots in Tiaras and Tuxedos

I'm eagerly counting down to the Fall 2025 launch of Tiny Tots in Tiaras and Tuxedos!

Last month, my manuscript went through copyediting—polishing grammar, spelling, clarity, and flow. Now it's in the formatting stage, where details like fonts, photo placement, margins, and front matter (foreword, preface, table of contents, etc.) are being finalized. At the same time, the finishing touches are being added to the front and back covers.

Once that's done, the spine will be sized to match the exact page count—the final step before heading to print!

I'll admit, I once thought finishing the book was the hardest part. Turns out, the publishing process is far more involved (and longer!) than I imagined.

The good news?

Pre-orders should be opening in early October!

I can't wait to share Tiny Tots in Tiaras and Tuxedos with you soon!

POV: You find your parents' old love letters hidden in an attic...

That's what happened to me. Inside a dusty suitcase, I uncovered letters between my parents, Kermit & Augustus Hill—revealing a powerful story of love + resilience in the Jim Crow era. That secret became the inspiration for my new book, Tiny Tots in Tiaras and Tuxedos (coming Fall 2025).

Meet Lori Prentiss Dade

Our latest Tiny Tot School alum featured in "Then and Now." Lori performed "Push Me Pull Me" in Tiny Tot's Royal Coronation in the 1970s. For Lori, Tiny Tot felt like family—a place where she felt safe, enjoyed lots of activities, and was always eager to go. She recalls, "Mrs. Hill would give us hugs and kisses."

Read more about Lori and our other Tiny Tot alums including first students Hugh & Augustus Hill, Gary Burnley, and many more on Tiny Tot's website tinytotalums.com/then-%26-now
