Celebrating 20 years of WildPlay!

On June 26th, WildPlay Nanaimo celebrated 20 years of adventure, courage, and unforgettable moments. Since opening in 2006, the bungy platform has welcomed countless people taking the leap for something greater than themselves. Among them have been 166 bosses who have jumped in support of individuals and families affected by brain injury.

This October, Toss the Boss returns to WildPlay, bringing together participants with stories of their own. Some are jumping to honor a loved one, others to give back and support a cause that has touched their lives. Together, they are helping raise awareness and tell the courageous stories behind every jump on October 2nd.

Cheers to Peer Volunteers!

Last year, peer volunteers from Nanaimo Brain Injury Society completed 406 visits to patients at the Nanaimo Regional General Hospital Rehabilitation Unit. Their dedication is reflected in every interaction, as they continually go above and beyond to support and uplift those navigating the difficult first weeks after an acquired brain injury. Through their compassion and generosity, they make a meaningful and lasting difference in the community.

Did You Know?

In Canada, 1 in 3 people will experience a brain injury in their lifetime. These (often) invisible injuries cost the Canadian healthcare system an estimated $12.7 billion each year.

The programs and services at NBIS support people during and after the acute stages of their recovery, ensuring nobody has to face life after brain injury alone.

Behind every jump is a story

Mountainview Chiropractic & Massage Therapy

Dr Seth Harper-Heir and the team at Mountainview Chiropractic & Massage Therapy have seen firsthand the lasting effects brain injuries can have on an individual and their families, and know the importance of having access to local supports and rehabilitation programs. Taking part in Toss the Boss extends their care beyond the clinic ❤️
