

Therapeutic Consulting Association (TCA)

WHAT DIFFERENTIATES US?

EXPERIENCE

- 85% of TCA members have an advanced degree in a related field, ensuring comprehensive understanding of the needs of clients and the clinical and educational components of schools and programs.
- TCA offers a Professional and Associate membership, which helps families to differentiate levels of experience and allows for formal mentoring, training and professional development within the organization.

COLLABORATION

- The TCA membership is collegial and collaborative, with expert consultants sharing knowledge, program updates and professional contacts. When you hire one TCA member, you are accessing a "collective mind."
- Members participate in mandatory consultation groups for ongoing support, feedback and training.

RIGOROUS STANDARDS OF MEMBERSHIP

- TCA members must tour at least 40 unique programs every twelve months and provide documentation of visits.
- TCA requires members to participate in formal mentoring, training, continuing education and professional development to enhance their professional knowledge and education.
- Prospective members undergo a rigorous interview process before admittance.

ETHICS

- TCA members do not have a fiduciary relationship with any program, school or referral; only their clients.
- TCA members adhere to strict rules related to program visits and confidentiality.
