

Moonstruck

Ivory full moon
Against pale morning sky
Shines through
Lattice work of bare limbs

Icy footprints
Crunch and press into silver grass
Trackable steps
Trail away in wonderment

Dark half moon
Dunked in white icing
Peeks through
Bars of twiggy sticks

Frigid night
Arms wrap against chilliness
Vapors escape
Embrace newfound tranquility

Photography by Kathy Waelder: Her photos have been published on TV and in magazines.
Poem by Sherry Cerrano, Published in Saturday Writers A World of Writing: Anthology 16