

A composite image featuring a historical painting on the left and a modern photograph on the right. The painting on the left depicts a queen in traditional African attire, including a headwrap and a beaded necklace, standing next to a balance scale. In the foreground, there are several gold bars and coins. The modern photograph on the right shows a family of five in a living room. A man in a plaid shirt looks up, while a woman and two young children are smiling. A baby is being held in the background.

LESSONS FROM A QUEEN

TRUSTING GOD IN THE UNKNOWN

Excellence in Ministry

Saturday, January 10th

• 9AM (EST)

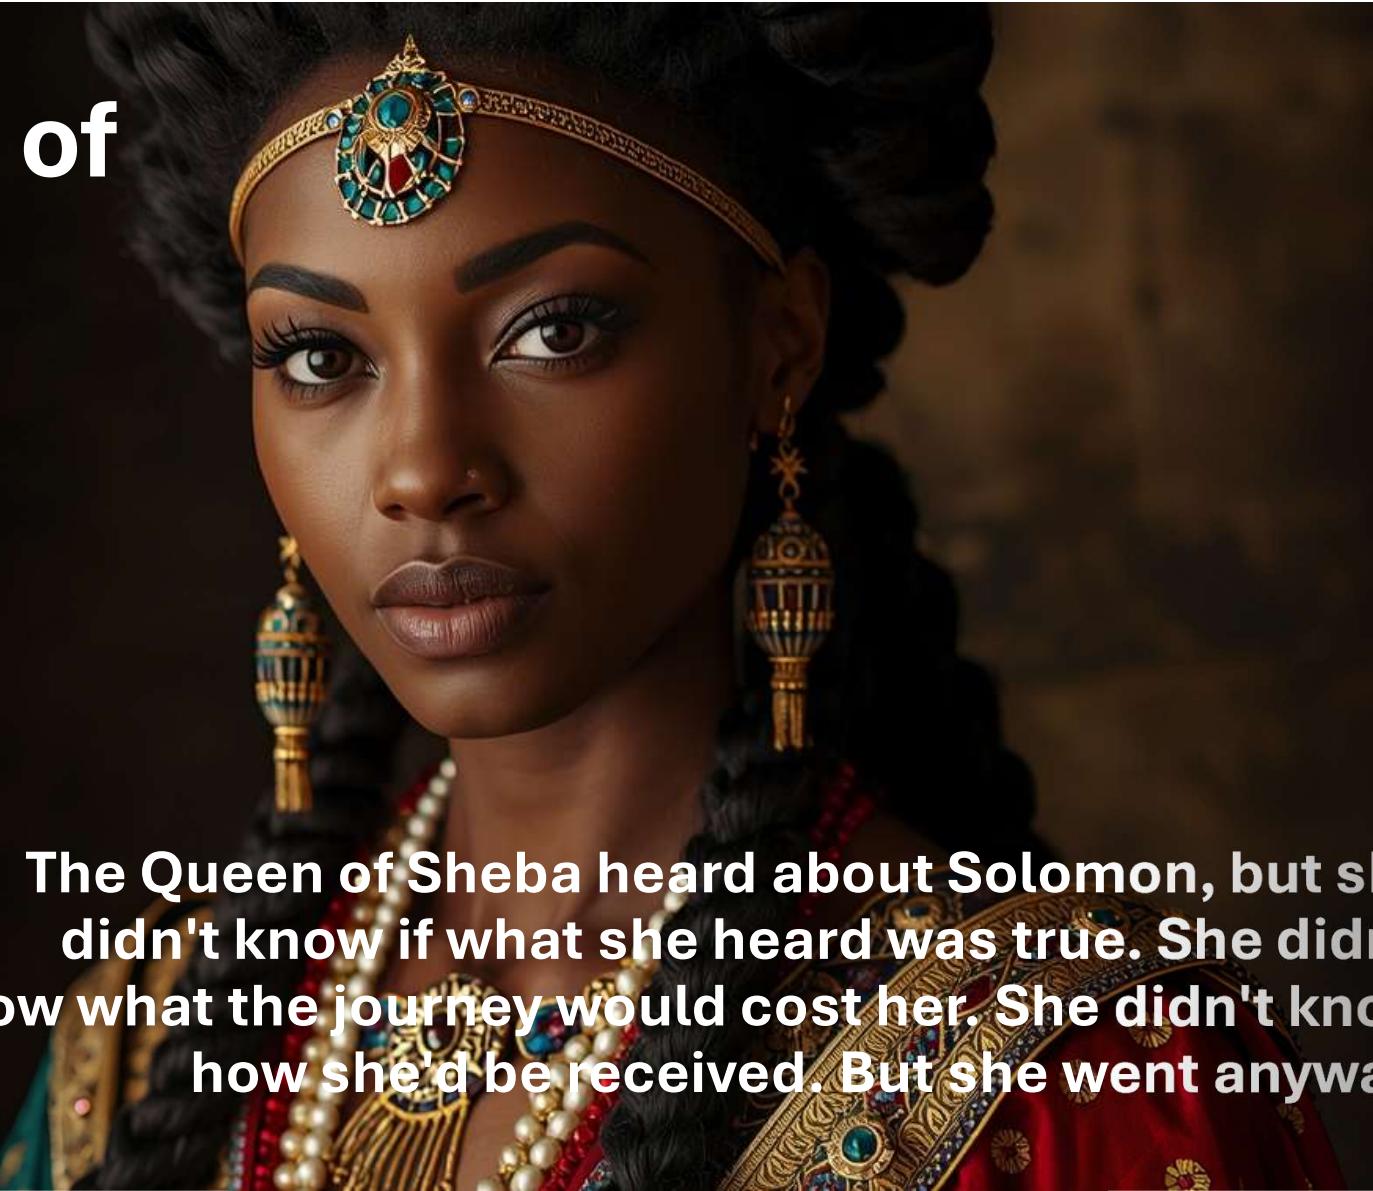

Bishop
Kim A. Davis

1 Kings 10:1-13

The Queen of Sheba

The Queen of Sheba heard about Solomon, but she didn't know if what she heard was true. She didn't know what the journey would cost her. She didn't know how she'd be received. But she went anyway.

The Sons of Noah

Ham, Shem and Japheth
Sons of Ham: Cush, Mizram and Phut

"The sons of Cush: Seba, Havilah, Sabtah, Raamah, and Sabteca. The sons of Raamah: Sheba and Dedan.“ Genesis 10:7

When your future is uncertain, you have to step out on what you've heard about God, even when you can't see the full picture. The Queen didn't let her questions keep her from seeking answers.

“Pastor, I don’t know what’s next, but I know WHO holds what’s next.”

God, where are you leading me?

Trust God!

Hired!

3 Months Later

Your season of uncertainty is actually God's invitation to discover more of His wisdom, His provision, and His faithfulness than you ever imagined possible.

When you trust God through uncertain times, He doesn't just meet your needs—He exceeds your expectations. Your season of not knowing is setting you up for overflow.

