Notice Regarding the Estate of Leonila Sales Agbunag

Effective immediately, the Estate of Leonila Sales Agbunag will be assuming full responsibility for all creditor and debtor matters related to the estate. All individuals, entities, and officials with claims, obligations, or interests involving the estate are hereby notified of this transition.

Key Points:

- All creditor and debtor communications, claims, and settlements must now be directed to the estate.
- The estate will manage, review, and resolve all outstanding financial matters, including debts owed by or to the estate.
- This notice applies to all interested parties, including but not limited to creditors, debtors, law enforcement, and investigative officers.

Public Record Reference:

For verification and further information, all relevant testamentary filings, estate equity documents, and official public records can be accessed through the State of Hawaii, City and County of Honolulu Bureau of Conveyances. These documents provide legal confirmation of the estate's authority and ongoing administration.

Instructions for Interested Parties

- Review Public Filings: All parties are encouraged to review the official documents filed with the Bureau of Conveyances for confirmation and details regarding the estate's authority.
- Contact the Estate: For all matters related to debts, credits, or claims, please contact the estate directly through the official channels provided on the estate's website.
- Legal Compliance: All parties are expected to comply with this notice and direct any relevant inquiries or actions to the estate's representatives.

This notice is issued for publication at the top of the estate's official website and serves as formal communication to all affected and interested parties.

Thank you for your attention and cooperation.
