“Jesus”, the 1999 CBS miniseries is what was shown at Salvation Theatre this week. Unlike the movie, “The Gospel of John” that we previewed in July, this movie is a chronological blending of the four Gospels with the director adding extra non-biblical elements that showed what could have been the more human aspect of Jesus; temptations that he could have face, how he could have interacted with his disciples, his loving interaction with Joseph his father and more. It was very well done and stirred our hearts again to continue to seek Jesus daily in our lives through the Bible.

As with any movie, we always need to come back to the Bible itself and let it be the final authority and base our belief upon it; not upon someone’s interpretation of it.
