

January 13, 2016

The value of life. What does that mean to you? The day and age we are in right now, countless thousands of babies are abandoned at birth around the world, lives that if not found in an hour or minutes will die on the streets. The Drop Box shakes you to the core as Pastor Lee Jong-rak of Jusarang (God's Love) Community church in Seoul, South Korea, influenced by the love of Jesus Christ, and has sought to make a difference. Mothers who are unable to care for their new-borns either because of poverty, age, class or numerous other reasons, are able to leave their baby in a little heated box accessible to the street at Pastor Lee's home and when the door closes a door chime rings advising those at home that a baby has just been left there. It's tremendously sad but on the other hand immensely uplifting and full of hope to see this man open his arms and make a difference in his world.

