It seems like anywhere in the western world, being politically correct is the new catchy phrase. For Christians however, we are in this world but not of it, so standing up for Jesus Christ has become a hot political, social and moral topic. God's Not Dead 2 deals exactly with this topic in a very down to real way when a high school teacher uses the name of Jesus as an answer to a student's simple question. Excellent and will stir you to be bold!
