

Dear Valued Customer,

As we navigate the potential implementation of U.S. tariffs on Canadian goods—and the likelihood of retaliatory tariffs on U.S. goods—we want to share how we are proactively addressing any potential impact on our customers.

Our top four priorities in evaluating every product we carry remain unchanged: Food Safety, Product Quality, Certainty of Supply, and Cost. Regardless of external factors, we are committed to ensuring a safe, high-quality, and reliable supply of fresh produce at the most competitive prices possible.

While we hope that no tariffs will be imposed by either country, we are preparing for the possibility. If Canada responds with similar measures to those previously indicated, tariffs may be applied to citrus, beans, and tomatoes. The U.S. is a key supplier of high-quality citrus, but fortunately, many citrus items—such as oranges, grapefruits, mandarins, and limes—are also available from Egypt, Morocco, Spain, and Mexico. Lemons may be an exception, as U.S. supply will remain our primary source until South African lemons arrive in approximately six weeks. Green beans and tomatoes, which are currently sourced from Mexico, would remain unaffected.

Given Canada's reliance on imported fruits and vegetables due to our climate and short growing seasons, we continue to explore sourcing opportunities from Canada, Mexico, and other regions to diversify supply and reduce dependency on U.S. produce. We will endeavour to keep you informed as this situation evolves and appreciate your ongoing support of our 100% Alberta-owned business.

Thank you for your trust and partnership.
