Pine Hill Cemetery Lantern Tour

In the north end of the cemetery, several children's graves are marked by the image of a lamb, signifying innocence and the Lamb of God.

The children buried in these graves were usually victims of typhoid or diphtheria before vaccines were produced.

As an example, we can look to the graves of College Treasurer Emory Glenn's sons:

- Young John B. Glenn died from typhoid when he was five years old
- his two-year-old brother, Emory, died of the same disease a week later in January 1859
