

Mohamed Sami Graduated with Merit from the Faculty of Electrical Engineering at Cairo University in Egypt in 1987. In 1989 He joined EgyptAir as an Aircraft Maintenance Engineer. During his career with EgyptAir he had been appointed in several positions, in 1994 he joined the Material directorate acting as Material and Spares Planner. In 2002 he was selected to join the working group dedicated to Establish EgyptAir Maintenance & Engineering Quality Management System to be approved from the European Aviation Safety Association (EASA) and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) . In 2006 he was appointed as the Manager of Quality improvement of EgyptAir M&E. He became the Quality Assurance Director of EgyptAir M&E in 2012. Currently and since 2015 Mohamed Sami is the Accountable Manger of EgyptAir M&E and is also the CEO of National and International Accreditations. In addition to his career at EgyptAir, Mohamed Sami is also an Instructor at the American University in Cairo for the Post Graduate Diploma in Total Quality Management, he is also an approved instructor in the Arab Air Carrier Organization (AACO) for Aviation Safety and Quality Courses. He was also appointed by the Arab Air Carrier Organization (AACO) as the Chairman of initiative Joint audit program for the Member Air Carriers vendors.