PRESIDENCY MESSAGE

With the holidays fast approaching, I was reminded of Sister Lynn's lesson of a few weeks back about HOW we worship and in WHOM we worship. Jesus was both extraordinary and ordinary. "I am the true light that lights every man that comes into the world. I am the light and the redeemer of the world, the spirit of truth. Therefore, in the beginning the word was, for He was the word even the messenger of salvation. The worlds were made by him, men were made by him, and all things were made by him and through Him and of Him" —D&C: 93.

Jesus was so extraordinary and so important yet he CHOSE to be born ordinary. He then grew Grace for Grace by remembering who He was in the pre mortal life. He started human and became divine AGAIN. We are similar to the Savior in that way. We were both with the father in the beginning and then we came to Earth. Jesus was born, but He didn't receive the fullness at first, but he continued from Grace to Grace until he received a fullness. We are similar in that we need to learn Grace for Grace and remember who we were in the pre-mortal life.

Our goal is to learn and remember those things that were our strengths in the premortality just like He did! Sometimes We place Christ on such a high pedestal that we can be more discouraged than inspired, but this can't be so. The scriptures humanize Christ so that we can relate to him. Jesus got hungry, tired, and He felt how it was to be mortal. He can be relatable to us. Jesus had struggles so he could "Take upon him the pains and sicknesses of his people, and also that He will take upon Him their infirmities that his bowels may be filled with mercy, according to the flesh that he may know according to the flesh, how to succor his people." THIS is whom we worship.

Bruce R. McConkie said, "Perfect worship is emulation. We honor those we imitate. True worship is to be holy as Jehovah is holy. It is to be pure as Christ is pure." True worship, then is imitation. We must look for those to succor, to lift up and love.

May we strive to emulate and imitate the Savior always, but especially during this holiday season. May this season be one of TRUE worship. In the name of Jesus Christ, Amen. □
