

ELLIS CAFÉ

ALLERGEN GUIDE

We understand the importance of providing our valued customers with a safe experience. Should you have any food allergies or intolerances, please review the following information carefully to help you decide on your dining options.

Please note that because of shared cooking and preparation spaces in our kitchen, cooking procedures and reliance on our suppliers to provide us with accurate information about their products, we cannot eliminate the risk of cross-contamination or any item being allergen-free.

If any person in your party has a food allergy, please inform your server ahead of placing the order. For further assistance about our food, please ask for our Food Manager. We can provide you with a complete list of ingredients. We also recommend referring to your medical professional should you have more questions about your food allergies and sensitivities.
