Disclaimer

Our property viewing service aims to provide customers with detailed observations, photos, and videos based on a general visual inspection of the property. However, this service does not replace a formal property survey, valuation, or any specialised inspections such as structural, plumbing, electrical, or environmental assessments.

While we strive to offer comprehensive insights, our reports are based on observations made at the time of the viewing and should not be considered exhaustive. We do not guarantee the detection of all defects or issues, nor can we be held liable for any omissions or unforeseen issues that may arise after our inspection.

Our insights into local market trends and neighbourhood amenities are based on current information available at the time of the report. Any decisions regarding property purchase are the sole responsibility of the client, and we recommend consulting with licensed professionals for specialised inspections or financial advice prior to making a final purchasing decision.
