

Surf Soup® Launches Innovative Social-Emotional Learning Art Classes for Kids Globally on Outschool

Creator Donna Kay Lau brings the vibrant, imagination-fueled world of Surf Soup® to a structured online learning format. The beloved children's brand Surf Soup® expands its universe today with the official launch of live, interactive virtual workshops on Outschool. Combining proprietary social-emotional learning (SEL) tools with hands-on creativity, these unique sessions are designed to gently guide young minds out of their shells and build lasting artistic confidence.

Los Angeles, California

Surf Soup®, the dynamic children's media brand focused on adventure, character education, and creative expression, has officially expanded into the live digital learning space with a brand-new series of interactive online classes on the global platform "Outschool." Available starting today, these structured virtual workshops bring the whimsical world of Surf Soup® directly to children worldwide, blending hands-on art instruction with a dedicated Social-Emotional Learning (SEL) curriculum. The expanding Surf Soup® universe is spearheaded by creator Donna Kay Lau, a veteran Primetime Emmy-honored animator, filmmaker, and author. Lau channels her 25 years of high-level entertainment studio expertise into this proprietary educational curriculum. Her extensive industry background includes professional animation credits on massive multi-generational television hits like Dora the Explorer, Oswald, CatDog, Generator Rex, Ben 10, and Regular Show.

The new Surf Soup® Outschool workshops provide a warm, supportive, and playful space structured specifically to help shy or hesitant learners thrive. The classes maintain a flexible environment where public speaking is never forced, allowing children to participate comfortably through listening, drawing, or showing their creative work directly to the camera.

"Our proprietary Surf Soup® curriculum brings storytelling and art together to build lasting confidence," says Lau. "Every live workshop is intentionally designed to guide young minds out of their shells. We offer a structured yet flexible environment that meets children at their own comfort level, helping them turn bright ideas into real artistic confidence."

Families can explore live schedules, read extensive class descriptions, and secure their spots by visiting the official registration pages. To celebrate today's launch, parents can use the coupon code DONNAKAYOUT73 at checkout to claim a special introductory class discount. Spaces are strictly limited to maintain small, highly interactive group sizes.
