Fresh off the heels of her latest successful crowdfunding campaign, Prime Time Emmy-honored TV animator, author, and illustrator Donna Kay Lau is rapidly expanding her creative empire. Today marks the official multi-platform rollout of a brand-new wave of Surf Soup TV interactive content, deliberately deployed across Amazon (launching soon), Teachers Pay Teachers (TpT), and Etsy to serve families, collectors, and educators simultaneously. The extensive launch centers around three major paperback releases now live on Amazon, heavily focusing on the world of "Baby Animals" and

"Ocean Baby Animals." These physical editions translate Lau's signature, high-energy animation style into beautiful, heavy-line coloring pages designed to nurture artistic confidence in children. Parallel to the print launch, Lau has formally entered the digital education and crafting spaces by uploading four specialized coloring resource packs directly to Teachers Pay Teachers, alongside a massive, premium 100+ page mega-PDF bundle on Etsy optimized for instant home downloading and classroom printouts. "Expanding into digital and physical coloring books is a natural evolution for the Surf Soup TV universe," says creator Donna Kay Lau. "My goal is to make these characters and their positive messages of ocean conservation and universal inclusion as accessible as possible. By launching simultaneously on Amazon for print lovers, and Etsy and Teachers Pay Teachers for instant digital access, parents and educators can instantly bring high-quality, animation-grade art right to their kids' desks. I am completely focused on building, scaling, and delivering this universe directly to the community." By diversifying across these major platforms, Lau ensures that her message of mindful creativity bridges the gap between commercial entertainment and structured education. The newly published print books are available immediately for global delivery via Amazon, while the 100+ page digital editions can be accessed instantly by searching for Surf Soup TV on Etsy and Teachers Pay Teachers.
