Higher fines for term-time holidays start today: Here's what you need to know

 Fines will increase from £60 per parent for each child to £80 per parent for each child if paid within 21 days.	 If a parent receives a second fine for the same child in a three-year period, they will automatically be charged at the higher fine rate of £160.	 If the fine isn't paid within 28 days, parents can be prosecuted.
 Fines per parent will now be capped at two fines within any three-year period.	 Once the two-fine limit has been reached, parents could face further action, such as a parenting order or prosecution.	 If a parent is prosecuted and has to appear in court, they could be issued a fine of up to £2,500.

What are your thoughts on the fines?
