

MEASURED GOLF

Winter Leagues and Monthly Tournaments

With the weather being less than accommodating to golf during the Winter months, we have created leagues and monthly tournaments to keep your golf game improving and active this offseason. New this offseason will be the monthly tournaments that are only available to Measured Golf members. Members will have a week to get their tournament round in and recorded and winners will be announced the following Monday. Also, in addition to the “public” league that we started last year, we will also be starting a private, member-only league that will play weekly throughout the Winter. Like last year, you aren’t going to want to wait to sign-up, as spots will go fast.

Winter Leagues

The winter golf league will be an 11-week league consisting of a regular season, post season, and championship week. Seeding will be determined after the post season with each win earning the winning team 1 point during the regular season, and 1.5 points during the post season. If there are ties at the end of the post season, the average score will be used to determine the higher seed.

Teams will consist of two players and will be responsible for fielding a two-man team each week. If for some reason a member of the team cannot make it to the match, a substitute player must be found and will play to a zero handicap. If a substitute cannot be found, one team member will have to play solo. Each team will have its members awarded 30% of their current verifiable handicap during the regular season. The format will be the same throughout the conclusion of the league, a 2-man best ball format.

The overall champion of the league will be awarded a one year Measured Golf membership for each team member. The loser of the 5-seed vs. 6-seed match will receive three free lessons per team member with either Michael or Adam.

Each week will feature an 18-hole match between two teams. Men under the age of 50 will play from the next to back tees during matches and men over the age of 50 will play one tee shorter. Any women playing or substituting in the league will play from the shortest tee available. Auto-putting will be enabled for timeliness and convenience. Each team member will receive 30% of their current verifiable handicap per round.

Both the member-only and “public” league will start the first week of January 2022
