Know Your God

Mark 8:29 (ESV),

And he asked them, "But who do you say that I am?" Peter answered him, "You are the Christ."

Very soon after my conversion, I was asked by a Muslim man, "who is your God?" Two things happened to me. The first, I felt completely left for dead and defenseless. Second, I felt completely inadequate about my knowledge of God.

Now, of course, I was a very new Christian so I cannot be ashamed that I did not have an adequate response for this man. Yet at the same time, God used this as a catalyst to drive deep within me a strong hunger and thirst to know Him more and more. It has been about seven years since that happened and it still plays in the back of my mind.

I want nothing more than to know Jesus. I don't want to know about Him or even know just things that He did and stood for. Don't get me wrong, I believe these are great, however, I want these to flow out of my relationship with Him and not just from an intellectual pursuit of knowledge about Him.

I am further convinced that this is something God is desiring as well. Can you imagine that Almighty God is waiting to be discovered and known by you?

If someone asked you who your God is, what would you say? Would you be ready to recount all the ways that He has revealed Himself personally to you? Or, would you be left for dead like I was?

Our prayer for you is that your faith in Christ Jesus would consume all that you are so that you will be ready to recount all He is to you.

Lord Jesus, You are truly the most remarkable of all who ever walked this earth. And to think that You alone are God is just even more remarkable. Give us the ability to truly cherish You and know You more and more so that by default we can make You known. Our lives do not belong to us, they belong to You. Therefore, give us grace to know and serve You with true reverence and godly fear, in Jesus name. Amen.

In Christ's Love,
Chris and Jeanne
