Loneliness and Social Isolation Report

Loneliness

Loneliness is feeling alone or disconnected from others. It is feeling like you do not have meaningful or close relationships or a sense of belonging.

There are three types of loneliness.

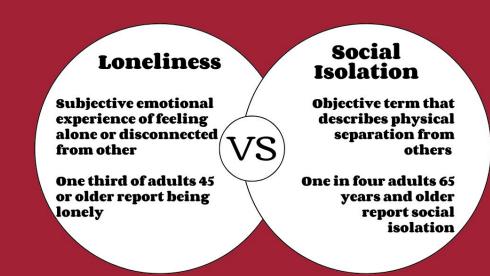

- 1. Emotional loneliness, the absence of meaningful relationships.
- 2. Social loneliness, a perceived deficit in the quality of social connections.
- 3. Existential loneliness a feeling of fundamental separateness from others and the wider world

Social Isolation

Social isolation is the lack of relationships with others and little to no social support or contact. It is associated with risk even if people don't feel lonely.

All types of social isolation can include staying home for lengthy periods of time, having no communication with family, acquaintances or friends, and/or willfully avoiding any contact with other humans when those opportunities do arise.

LONLINESS VS. SOCIAL ISOLATION

- "58% of Americans reported feeling lonely consistently. Loneliness is on the scale of the opioid epidemic or obesity" (Okolo, 2023).
- "Loneliness leads to a 29% increased risk of heart disease; a 32% increased risk of stroke; and a 50% increased risk of developing dementia for older adults" (Summers et al, 2023)
- "Residents of New England (20%) report the highest level of loneliness across nine U.S. regions" (Witters, 2023).
- "Over 300 million people globally don't have a single friend, and one in five don't have friends or family that they can count on when needed" (Witters, 2023).

- "Some of my friends can't believe I come here, they say "that's for old people." They don't like that it's called Senior Center or Council on Aging. A Community Center would get more people to come. However we don't want people that are not old enough attending our programs, that's not fair.
- Some people need a push. Maybe if we had a "bring a friend" program.
- If they have meals or other interesting activities, there could be an incentive for the people that bring a friend
- "I have lived in Wakefield for 20 years and I still feel like a new resident"
