To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing on behalf, of Jason Lundbeck, PGA Professional. I have had the very pleasant opportunity over the last few years to know and work with Jason. I am truly going to miss working with him and more importantly the friendship we have developed.

In my capacity as a Senior VP, at BNY Mellon Asset Management, responsible for bringing in assets for the last 24 years, I have seen many talented individuals. The intangibles the successful people have exhibited over the years, I see in Jason. Not only is he a very talented golfer and a great teacher of the game, it is the other variables that stand out. The hard work, dedication, humility, and most importantly the character, is what separate Jason, from others.

I have watched over the years the countless lessons he has given, always with the positive attitude. From working with kids just starting out, the high handicapper, the low handicapper, he has always made the game a little easier for those of us that have the pleasure of his wisdom. His dedication, to always making us the best golfer we could be, his energy in making the events at our club, the events everyone wanted to participate in, are special traits. The long thankless hours he put in making sure everything was running smoothly were very much appreciated, and overlooked by the casual observer.

The character, Jason exhibits is truly the differentiator in any scenario. It is what sets him apart and what makes him stand out. It is truly hard to define character, but when you see it, you recognize it immediately. His morals, ethics, compassion, and humility all help define who he is. As a father of 3 daughters, if any one of them came home with someone like Jason, I would feel very fortunate.

I hope in a small way, I have given you some insight into who and what Jason, has meant to me. Please feel free to reach out to me for any further information. I thank you for your consideration.
